Taina (TV series)

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Not to be confused with Tainá trilogy.

Taina is an American sitcom created by Maria Perez-Brown. It originally ran on Nickelodeon from January 14, 2001 to May 11, 2002. Originally filmed at Nickelodeon Studios in Orlando, Florida, it was the last sitcom to be filmed there before being moved to the Nickelodeon on Sunset in Hollywood for its second season. Despite high ratings, the series only lasted for two seasons before being cancelled in 2002.

Premise [edit]

Taina Morales is a young Puerto Rican teenager who aspires to be a singer and actress. She and her best friend Renee Jones attend the Manhattan High School of the Performing Arts, where they reunite with Lamar, whom they haven't seen since elementary school. The girls' nemesis Maritza Hogg, who knew them before high school, also attends the performing-arts school and hopes to be a singer/actress. Every episode features Taina daydreaming of eventual superstardom and occasionally performing a new song.

Main [edit]

- Christina Vidal as Taina Maria Morales, a young girl with hopes of being a professional singer and actress. She attended a performing arts school with her best friend Renee, rival Maritza, and friends Daniel and Lamar. She and her friends often got themselves into wacky situations in their search for stardom. Though Taina's impatience and impulsiveness would occasionally get her into scraps, her honesty and compassion got her out. The name Taina is the female form of the name of the indigenous Puerto Rican people, the Tainos.
- Khaliah Adams as Renee Aretha Jones, Taina's best friend. She is an aspiring comedienne and rapper. A boy-crazy girl, she often helped to ground Taina when her imagination ran away with her. Renee also tended to chase after boys frequently; unfortunately, her love interests weren't the right ones for her.
- Chris Knowings as Lamar Carlos Johnson, Taina's passionate guy friend and an aspiring director and writer. Not only did he serve as an editor of the performing-art school's newspaper, he also had a crush on Taina and waited for the day she would finally come around. His best friend was Daniel, and the two often join forces to make a quick buck. He served as a support for Taina and the others, offering level-headed advice.
- David Oliver Cohen as Daniel Nathaniel McDaniel, a multi-instrumentalist, who also shares the same school locker with Taina. Handsome and opinionated, his loves included writing songs, playing other instruments and chasing after girls. Daniel prided himself on being quite the ladies' man, but often ended up scorned. It was hinted that he had true feelings for Renee. He loves The Beatles, and usually accompanied Taina's songs on his guitar.
- LaTangela Newsome as Maritza Hogg, Taina and Renee's rival. She also aspired to be an actress and singer, but tended to be more ruthless than Taina. She loved to upstage others in her quest to become a star. However, she wasn't pure evil, and sometimes participated with Taina and her friends to make money or fight other rivals. She prided herself on being an "evil diva".

Recurring [edit]

- Lisa Lisa as Gloria Elana Morales
- Cristina Saralegui as Principal Rojas
- Josh Cruze as Eduardo Morales
- Manolo Villaverde as Gregorio "Abuelo" Sanchez
- Brandon Iglesias as Santito Morales (season 1)
- Selenis Leyva as Titi Rosa
- Joseph Bertot as Hector Colon
- Ruben Rabasa as Papito
- Jacob Urrutia as Santito Morales (season 2)

Development and production [edit]

Production on the show began sometime around the summer of 2000. The pilot was partially shot at the Laguardia Performers School in 1999 and finished at Nickelodeon on Sunset. Season 2 was shot from December 2001 – January 6, 2002. The show premiered on January 14, 2001 on Nickelodeon where ratings grew. New episodes would eventually move into the TEENick block at launch on March 4, 2001 starting with its eighth episode [1][2] and lasted for two seasons. Taina was scheduled to air every Sunday at 6pm.[3] The show was even put on Nickelodeon's SNICK lineup on Saturday nights from January to May 2002, where ratings more than doubled in its second season.[4] Despite its popularity, (the show garnered Nickelodeon its highest ratings in 3 years) the show was cancelled that summer.[5] CBC reran the show for a few months in 2003.

Cancellation [edit]

In July 2002, Nickelodeon quietly cancelled Taina after two seasons. There were reports that the show was only appealing to a female demographic, as well as the show starting to get too expensive to produce (according to Josh Cruze). However, according to Vidal in a later interview, the real reason why the show was cancelled was due to behind-the-scenes business decisions and the network clashing with Vidal's management team, which included her mother. Scripts for a third season and a made-for-television movie of the series were already written before Nickelodeon cancelled the show.[6][7] Vidal says Nickelodeon replaced the show with Romeo!

Home releases [edit]

The series has seen no DVD releases in North America, however a single-release VHS/DVD was released by Maverick Entertainment in the United Kingdom in March 2004 named "Be Careful What You Wish For", which features the first four aired episodes.[8][9]

The show is also currently not available to view or stream on Paramount+, where many of it's Nickelodeon counterparts are streaming. However, the entire series is viewable on YouTube and is currently the only means of accessing the program.

Soundtrack [edit]

"Taina: Original Television Soundtrack" is the official soundtrack for the series. It was released on February 19, 2002 by Nick Records distributed through now-defunct Jive Records/Zomba Recording Corporation and MTV Networks. The album contains songs featured in the show's second season, such as "Feel Good" and "I'm In Love With Me" and none from the first season, with the exception of "Gonna Be A Star", the show's theme. The songs are performed by the show's stars Christina Vidal and LaTangela with additional songs performed by 3LW and Dream (previously featured on their respective albums 3LW and It Was All a Dream), as members of both groups made appearances during the show's first season. Additionally, the soundtracks boasts writing and production from legendary R&B group and production team Full Force (known for working with show star Lisa Lisa) as well as Nate Butler, Lindy Robbins and Kevin Paige.
